

Abstract of the Disclosure

A destination address routing data structure may be loaded with non-forwarding destination addresses such that a lookup performed with the routing data structure using one of the non-forwarding destination addresses may result in identification of a packet as one to be dropped.

10125262.doc